

Call for papers

The 3rd FIRN PhD Symposium

November 17, 2020

FIRN is seeking submissions from PhD students at member institutions for the FIRN PhD symposium which will be held on Tuesday 17th November 2020. Given the prevailing COVID-19 situation and restrictions on travel, the conference will be online.

PhD students participating in the symposium will receive high-quality feedback in a supportive atmosphere from fellow students and senior academics.

Eligibility

FIRN invites final year PhD students from member institutions to submit a paper to the symposium. The papers will be evaluated by the symposium technical committee and preference will be given to single authored papers. Students will have need to have a polished draft of a paper to fully benefit from feedback at the symposium.

Costs and Financial Support

There is no fee to attend the PhD Symposium.

Submission

FIRN institutions need to submit their nomination at <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/2020FIRNPhD>. The deadline for nominations is 30 September 2020. Student should upload an initial draft of the paper that he/she will present. Successful PhD students will subsequently be sent a link to upload a revised paper with a deadline of 30 October 2020.
